ANTHONY BOURKE

Anthony “AB” Bourke is a highly experienced F-16 fighter pilot who has flown tactical missions across the globe, accumulating more than 2,700 hours in numerous high-performance aircraft. Following his distinguished military career, Bourke transitioned to the private sector, where he combined his passion for tactical aviation with business leadership as President and CEO of Afterburner, Inc.—a global management training company he co-founded. Under his direction, Afterburner grew into a best-in-class organization and was twice named one of Inc. Magazine’s 500 fastest-growing companies.

Today, as CEO and Founder of Mach 2 Consulting, Bourke brings his tactical expertise and business acumen to the forefront of leadership and performance training. He has shared his message of peak performance with more than 50,000 professionals across nine countries and is currently working on his upcoming book, The Art of the Debrief.
