MARK ESPER

Dr. Mark T. Esper is a seasoned national security expert, global strategist, and former U.S. Secretary of Defense who brings decades of leadership at the highest levels of government, military, and industry. As one of America's top defense officials, Dr. Esper played a central role in shaping U.S. military strategy, strengthening international alliances, and navigating crises around the world—from the Indo-Pacific and Middle East to NATO and beyond.

A West Point graduate, Army combat veteran, and former Secretary of the Army, Dr. Esper is uniquely positioned to speak on today's most pressing global challenges including great power competition with China and Russia, the future of warfare, defense innovation, crisis leadership, and geopolitical risk.

Known for his sharp analysis, calm authority, and real-world experience, Dr. Esper delivers high-impact keynotes that equip business leaders, policymakers, and global organizations to lead through complexity, prepare for strategic threats, and make informed decisions in a rapidly changing world. Dr. Esper's best-selling book, A Sacred Oath, provides an insider's view of U.S. defense decision-making at a time of historic disruption.

Whether addressing global summits, corporations, association audiences, universities or community forums, Dr. Esper offers an insider's perspective on leadership under pressure, civil-military relations, and securing competitive advantage in an age of uncertainty.
