

TYLER GOODSPEED

Tyler Goodspeed is a Kleinheinz Fellow at the Hoover Institution at Stanford University and U.S. Director at Greenmantle LLC.

From 2020 to 2021 he served as Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, having been appointed by the President as a Member of the Council in 2019. In that role, he advised the administration's economic response to the coronavirus pandemic as well as subsequent economic recovery packages.

He previously served as Chief Economist for Macroeconomic Policy and Senior Economist for tax, public finance, and macroeconomics, playing an instrumental role in the design of the 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act.

Before joining the Council of Economic Advisers, Dr. Goodspeed was on the Faculty of Economics at the University of Oxford and was a lecturer in economics at King's College London. He has published extensively on economic and financial history, banking, and monetary economics, with particular attention to the role of access to credit in mitigating the effects of adverse environmental shocks in historical contexts.

He has a PhD in history from Harvard University and a PhD in economics from the University of Cambridge. He also received a BA in economics and history from Harvard, MA in history from Harvard, and MPhil in economic history from Cambridge, where he was a Gates Scholar.
