

CHIP EICHELBERGER

Chip believes audiences don't need another speech—they crave an experience. For over five years, he served as Tony Robbins's international point person, delivering more than 1,300 presentations across the U.S., U.K., and Australia. This immersive training ground helped Chip develop a unique, high-energy style that blends humor, interaction, and persuasion to deliver real results. Whether he's opening, closing, or re-energizing a mid-day session, Chip promises to be the energy source that powers your event.

With more than 1,000 successful events under his belt, Chip has worked with leading organizations like Genentech, Ford, Hyatt, AXA, Harley-Davidson, Procter & Gamble, Exxon, State Farm, Dun & Bradstreet, RE/MAX, and over 100 diverse associations. Event planners consistently praise him not just as a keynote speaker, but as a true partner. He does his homework—conducting phone interviews, researching the industry, and customizing every message to resonate deeply with each audience.

Chip is one of just 7% of National Speakers Association members to earn the prestigious Certified Speaking Professional (CSP) designation. His book, The Smart Guide to Accomplishing Your Goals, along with a catalog of audio, video, and print resources, reflects his commitment to practical, lasting transformation.

He is especially known for The Board Break Experience – Breaking Barriers, a high-impact closing activity that leaves audiences inspired and activated. This interactive program is a favorite among clients who want their events to end on a memorable, empowering note.

Based in Knoxville, TN, Chip is a dedicated husband and father of three. When he's not on stage, he's an avid golfer, traveler, reader, dancer, and active community volunteer.
