ABOUT SEEMA VERMA

A national health policy expert, Seema Verma served the longest Administrator term for CMS in modern history. Confirmed by the Senate in 2017, she oversaw health insurance programs for over 140 million Americans, a budget of $1.3 trillion (almost a third of the federal budget), and over 6,000 employees. Verma was the architect of CMS's strategic vision, implementing over sixteen tactical initiatives aimed at transforming the American healthcare system to lower costs, improve quality, and increase access.

Verma also served on the White House COVID-19 Task Force where she led efforts to drive telehealth and remote care across the healthcare system while creating flexibility for health providers to augment the health care workforce, expand services and testing, and ensure access to vaccines and therapeutics.

Prior to CMS, Verma was the founder and CEO of a health policy consulting firm helping states and private industry on a range of healthcare issues. Verma has written extensively about a range of issues, publishing in The Wall Street Journal, Health Affairs, The Washington Post, and a variety of other publications. She has also made guest appearances on several news programs.
