TRENT GILLESPIE

Trent Gillespie is one of the most trusted voices in applied AI.

A former Amazon executive and CEO of Stellis AI, Trent focuses on understanding what actually makes AI-enabled organizations work—and turning that into a repeatable, reliable way organizations can transform.

During nearly a decade at Amazon, Trent worked at the center of growth, innovation, and AI, leading global growth initiatives, driving AI-fueled innovation for Last Mile Technology, and shaping Alexa’s global privacy strategy.

Today, Trent works hands-on with organizations of all sizes to research, test, and implement AI in the real world—from deploying AI agents to designing new AI-enabled products, services, and operating models. Through inspiring and practical keynotes, workshops, and deep implementation work, he helps leaders move from ideas to execution and build organizations that innovate, adapt, and create their next future.
